

Basic information

Gammarth is a small old village with 7.500 inhabitants. Gammarth covers quite a huge area of 15 square km divided to three parts.

Oldest one is called Gammarth Village. Second part is called Gammarth Superior as it is placed on the hill above Gammarth. Gammarth Superior is a residential area with high standard and luxurious houses. Last, but the biggest part, is Gammarth Touristic Zone. This area is distributed between Mediterranean Sea on the North side, Lake Ariana on the South side, La Marsa and Gammarth on the East side and Raoued on the West side.

The Touristic Zone offers the majority of 4 and 5 stars hotel accommodation in North Grand Tunis region, wide selection of restaurants, cafés. There is also new 18 holes golf course, new shopping center "Gammarth Centre" and more than 5 kilometers of the beaches.

What to see?

Gammarth doesn't offer historical sites as Carthage or other places around Tunis. In general, it is modern place with many hotels, restaurants, cafés and residential houses.

Excavations at "Gammarth Hill" have revealed some catacombs and Talmudic inscriptions. These ancient burial chambers are believed to date to Roman times in the 2nd century when nearby Carthage was a thriving Roman city.

On the top of the "Gammarth Hill" is placed French War Cemetery from Second World War.

Old village with the residential houses offers basic citizen services and two mosques. One was built around 1950, second one in 2008.

The Touristic zone offers only hotels, restaurants, cafés, beaches and 18 holes golf course. Gammarth area is also widest forest area in the region and offers walk between sea and lake in pine forest.

Where to eat and drink?

Gammarth area offers wide selection of the restaurants and the cafés. The majority of them offer high service standard. The most of them is located within the hotels based in the area. Popular cafés and small restaurants are mainly based in Gammarth Village. Following list is a selection of the restaurants and cafés.
